

Dear Change Maker!

By the latest count, there are nearly 30,00,000 Change Makers in the We Can Campaign! Do you remember how you became a Change Maker? Yes, those events and personal interactions helped us to share, learn, and even experience change.

Our campaign is about being in touch with Change Makers – not just through newsletters – but personally, face to face. Keeping in touch with so many Change Makers has been possible only because a lot of them have taken up special responsibilities to help others in their journey.

As you know, some Change Makers took on the role of Connectors to distribute newsletters...

...Then, recognising the need to have more and better interactions, Mobile Van events were also organised.

This time, look out for Volunteer Change Makers, who will be visiting you soon. She or he will help you to stay in touch with the campaign, and also bring you new ideas, questions and materials.

All of us have been trying to bring about small changes in our thinking and actions to reduce discrimination and violence against women. The way forward is to help the change grow – by making our change the norm in our families, friends and communities.

Best of Luck!

try solving this on your own or with a friend

Take some time to understand what is happening in each picture. Then try to answer the question...

What do you see?

in each pair, which situation do you see more often in our society?

Why?

Now, for each situation... describe a picture that you would like to see!

Are you saying that we should discriminate against men now?

Of course not! First, we must first recognise what is unfair. Then we must acknowledge that it is equally unfair for both men and women. If we can visualise a society that is fair to both genders, then we can slowly change society with our attitudes and actions.
